

Medical Director Occupational Health Europe: an International OH Career with International SOS

Director of Occupational Health operations and strategy for Europe, based primarily in Aberdeen and travelling frequently to our large London and Norway offices and client engagements over Europe.

We require an Occupational Health Consultant Specialist to lead our European and global OH initiatives.

Patient encounters would be a rare event in this role: you must have the ability to discuss Occupational Health and Travel Health with clients and our sales staff and propose and lead new commercial initiatives in Europe.

This post would most likely appeal to an existing OH Medical Director or a clinical OHP looking to ascend from the traditional patient-facing role. A competitive salary will be offered plus pension scheme, support for CPD and other benefits.

International SOS employs 1400 physicians worldwide and is a GMC designated body running its own award winning doctors' revalidation program. An applicant could look forward to a structured (and very possibly international) medical career with us.

Should you be interested in applying or finding out more about this opportunity please contact Stephanie Collins at stephanie.collins@internationalsos.com