

Clinical Lead Nurse

Due to continued expansion we have an exciting opportunity for a Clinical Lead Nurse to join our team and compliment the existing clinical governance and leadership provision.

The existing team consists of a dedicated occupational health physician, two business managers, a team of 12 occupational advisors and a small number of technicians.

The organisation boasts a positive working culture with business ambition and clinical governance working in perfect unity. Business and clinical processes are well established with the primary focus being on the maintenance of clinical best practice and technological developments.

The ideal candidate will have demonstrable experience of managing and guiding a clinical team to deliver an ethical and professional occupational health service to their clients. However, it is important to note that a forward thinking and proactive senior nurse would be considered on demonstration of the required skillset potential.

We are keen to speak to Clinical Leads, Nurse Managers and Senior Occupational Health Advisors interested in this unique opportunity. We are happy to discuss fulfilling the role on a full time permanent or part time position. The successful candidate will be key to delivering our company vision to provide the very best in occupational health services to our clients.

The work involved will involve supporting, developing and managing a team of professional practitioners to drive our ethical and professional values, ensuring an excellent service is received by all. Moreover, the successful candidate will also play a central role in the clinical quality management processes within the company.

The role will also include the periodic delivery of a full Occupational Health remit including: Statutory Health Surveillance, Fitness for Work Assessments, Management Referrals and Pre-Placement Assessments within Northern Ireland.

This truly is an opportunity not to be missed for the ambitious professional!
